THAT LAND SYNDICATE CASE.

What the Referee's Report in the Spalding and Bateman Suit Shows. A statement telegraphed from New York and published on the 22d instant, purporting to give the substance of the decision made by the referee in the case of Spalding vs. Bateman et al., involving the pos-session of certain real estate in this city, seems to have been, in some respects, inaccurate. A copy of the report of the referee has been received in this city, and it shows that some serious mistakes occurred in the telegraphic report, through the confusion of the names of the parties in the suit. The litigation grew out of a dispute concerning the rights and interests of the plaintiffs and defendants in a tract of land of about eighty acres adjoining this city. The summary of the testimony made by the referee shows that Henry D. Green, who was at the time an employe of Bateby the referee shows that Henry D. Green, who was at the time an employe of Bateman & Co., in June, 1886, discovered or heard that the property known as the Kengla property was for sale, and communicated with Arthur E. Bateman about it. Green informed Bateman that the property could be bought from Kengla for $15,000, one-fourth to be paid in cash. Bateman authorized Green to buy the property on these terms and then, it appears, immediately organized a syndicate, inducing man authorized Green to buy the property on these terms and then, it appears, immediately organized a syndicate, inducing the several persons who became interested to join with him and his partner, Douglas Green, to buy the property, representing that its price was $27,000. It appears that the only money centributed at the start, $7,000, was that given by Spalding, Durand and Sheldon, and which was paid to Arthur E. Bateman, Douglas Grenn and Arthur E. Bateman, seemingly, having never paid their share. The referee's report shows also that subsequently, through Bateman's order, Douglas Green, as trustee, had, without the knowledge of Sheldon, Durand and Spalding, borrowed $10,000 on the property. The referee, after a long review of the case, decides that Durand having assigned his interest in the property to Spalding, Spalding and Sheldon are entitled to the whole property.

The referee's report finds that Durand and Sheldon contributed all the money that was advanced by the syndicate; that Arthur E. Bateman and Douglas Green "paid nothing under the syndicate agreement and probably did not intend to do so when nothing under the syndicate agreement and probably did not intend to do so when they entered into it; they received the money of the plaintiff, Durand and Sheldon in a fiduciary capacity, charged with the duty to apply it toward the cost of the duty to apply it toward the cost of the property."

From the referee's report it appears Henry D. Green had nothing to do with the organization of the syndicate or with the transactions between its members, his connection with the affair ceasing after he purchased the property from Kengla for $15,000. The report also shows that Bateman had before that time told H. D. Green if he could find a cheap piece of property he would place it for him in New York so Henry D. Green could make some money. And the report says all testimony that H. D. Green was paid any other money excepting the $3,750 which he paid Kengla as the first cash payment is untrue.

Mrs. Mary Van Riswick was today made the defendant in a suit filed by Chas. G. Stone, in which $1,000 damages are asked. The plaintiff claims that on the 22d of last January a wagon belonging to Mrs. Van Riswick ran into his buggy on Brightwood avenue, throwing him out and greatly bruising him.

William M. Moreland of No. 440 10th street northwest made complaint to the police today that he had been robbed and asked that his son, who is only about seventeen years old, be arrested. Mr. Moreland's complaint was that his pocketbook, containing $100 and a check for $206, was taken. His son left home yesterday, so he said, and the officers are now trying to least a him.

Claims Damages.

In a suit filed today Geo. M. J. Dorsey asks $5,000 damages from the Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company. He claims that he was thrown from his bicycle on 13½ street on February 23, 1895, by the hurry or repair wagon of the company he hurry or repair wagon of the company while the vehicle was being driven at unlawful speed. His hand was crushed, he states, his bicycle destroyed, and he charg-es that no warning bell was rung.

The condition of George D. Bahen, the Georgetown University foot ball player who was injured in the game last Thanksgiving day, is decidedly precarious. Bahen has been gradually sinking of late, and at the hospital this afternoon a Star reporter was informed that death may come at any mo-ment. Mrs. Bahen, the mother of the inment. Mrs. Banen, the mother of the in-jured man, was summoned from Richmond, Va., Saturday to her son's bedside and has been with him since. The recent benefit given under the auspices of the law depart-ment of Georgetown University netted $700 for Mr. Bahen.

Death of John Fegan.

Mr. John Fegan, one of the oldest and largest wholesale liq or dealers in this city, died at his residence, No. 501 G street southwest, shortly after 3 o'clock Sunday morning. The end came peacefully after a brief illness of congestion of the lungs. His physician, Dr. J. J. Stafford, did everything that was possible to relieve his patient and prolong life, but it was of po avail. Mr. Fegan was a man well known and universally liked by his friends and acquaintances, of whom he had a large circle. He was very charitable, always contributing liberally to charitable and benevolent purposes. He will be missed by many who were the recipients of his kindness and assistance. a brief illness of congestion of the lungs

The Walles Case Settled.

The case of Sidney I. Wailes against the centroller of the state of Maryland, decided in the United States Supreme Court today, presented interesting points of law Wailes was authorized by the state legislature to prosecute to settlement all claims of the state against the government for of the state against the government for contingent fees of 30 per cent of the amount recovered. In 1891 the amounts of the direct tax of 1861 were refunded to the states by act of Congress, and Wailes began proceedings by petition for mandamus to secure from the controller $111,389.94. The Maryland court of appeals held that the state had no claim against the government for the direct tax, since that tax had been lawfully assessed. Afterward Wailes accepted $20,000 in full of all demands for his services in the matter. The Supreme Court in its opinion by Justice White sustained all of the findings of the Maryland court, held also that the of the Maryland court, held also that the acceptance of $20,000 in full barred Walles from further prosecution of the attempt to collect a fee, and also that there was no federal question involved.

REGRET THE ATTACK

Resolutions Regarding Li Hung Chang in the Japanese Diet.

THE BULLET NOT YET EXTRACTED

Were bought to sell at $18, $15, $12 and $10, and offered at $7.50 as a Nearly Four Hundred Germans Call on Bismarck.

GENERAL FOREIGN TOPICS

YOKOHAMA, March 25.-Resolution have been submitted to the Japanese diet regretting the attack made upon Viceroy Li Hung Chang, who was shot at and wounded in the face yesterday at Shimor cseki. The bullet has not yet been extracted from the face of Li Hung Chang, but the viceroy's condition is favorable; he has no fever and is suffering but little pain. His assailant, who is described as a political bravo,rushed from the crowd when Li Hung Chang's palanquin was passing, seized 'be carrier's hand, and fired at the Chinese statesman. The bullet entered the vice-roy's left cheek.

The affair has caused the greatest indignation here.

Anti-Pence Feeling in Japan. Mrs. John W. Foster said this afternoon that she had received no advices from Mr. Foster today. She was naturally alarmed when she read the accounts in the morning papers of the incident at Shimonoseki. But, as Mr. Foster distinctly said when he left for Japan, that he should use the cable freely, and keep her advised fully of his whereabouts, and had done so, both by cable and by letters, she was inclined to think the dispatches had told the worst of the attempt to shoot Li Hung Chang.

In his last letter Mr. Foster had told how strong the anti-peace feeling was in Japan and how the Japanese people, inflamed by their successes, were posessed by a strong desire to prosecute the war to the complete conquest of China. And he also related how careful the Japanese authorities were to restrain this hostile feeling and prevent it from breaking cut into some act of violence. When Mr. and Mrs. Foster were in Japan they were provided, wherever they went, with a special guard, and this was not exceptional, but the uniform practice on the part of the Japanese authorities to avoid, if possible, a recurrence of the distressing indignity that occurred to Prince George of Greece and the czarewitch of Russia, when they visited the island. Thus, ever since that affair, all foreigners of note have been provided with a guard that accompanied them about the country, and such a guard was with Li Hung Chang and the peace commissioners who, by the way, ate net very popular with the common people of Japan, who dislike their name. Peace is just row a hated word with the Japanese.

Mr. Foster writes that the Japanese authorities are so careful in their precautions against insult to the peace commissioners that they, in several places, asked the school teachers to instruct their pupils not to deride the commissioners, as had been done in one or two places, and the order was obeyed to the letter, every one when she read the accounts in the morning papers of the incident at Shimonoseki been done in one or two places, and the or der was obeyed to the letter, every one showing the foreigners perfect politeness during their presence in the vicinity.

CONGRATULATING BISMARCK.

Nearly Four Hundred Representative Germans Call on Him. FRIEDERICHSRUHE, March 25.-Thre special trains, having on board nearly 400 nembers of the reichstag and of the Prus sian diet, arrived here today, and were re celved at the railroad station by Count Herbert Bismarck, Count William Bismarck, Count Von Rantzau, husband of Prince Bismarck's daughter, and by Count Prince Bismarck's daughter, and by Count Von Waldersee. The deputations proceeded to the castle front, where they were received in a body by Prince Bismarck.

Herr Von Koelker, president of the lower house of the Prussian diet, made a speech, congratulating Prince Bismarck on the approaching eightieth anniversary of his birth. The Prince in reply made a speech, thanking the deputations for their kind wishes.

Conspicuous by his light blue uni-form was the venerable Oberfoerster Lange, who was evidently well known to many of the visitors and who actively assisted in their reception.

Just as the train bearing the final contingent steamed into the railroad station Prince Bismarck appeared on the plat-form, having walked from the house, a distance of only 150 yards. He wore the uniform of the Halberstaedter Cuirassiers, covered by a long, light gray cloak, with yellow facings, and a wide fur collar. The burnished helmet on his head glittered in the sun's rays.

As he walked down the double row of bowing visitors Prince Bismarck, whose bearing was as erect and soldierly as ever, though he was leaning lightly on a cane, exchanged greetings with his former colleagues and friends, having a pleasant word for each and now and then indulging in a jest which excited a burst of laughter.

As he passed the point where the representative of the Associated Press, was sentative of the Associated Press standing the latter heard him remark: "Well, you have come to see me in my wilderness? We are not accustomed to such grand visitors in these parts, I can

This sally evoked a fresh outburst of merriment. The prince's eyes were keen and undimmed, and twinkled kindly and good naturedly, while he chatted pleasantly with all on sundry subjects.

Having walked the entire length of the platform, the prince invited the visitors, who were thronging around, to accompany him to the house, apologizing for the poor accommodation it afforded, and intimating that a more formal reception would be accommodation it afforded, and intimating that a more formal reception would be held there. Count Herbert Bismarck repeated the invitation in a louder voice, and the company walked in a long, straggling procession to the house.

INDICTED THE MARQUIS. Oscar Wilde's Suit Brought Forward

LONDON, March 25 .- In the Old Bailey today the recorder, Sir Charles Hall, in charging the grand jury, referred to the libel proceedings instituted by Oscar Wilde against the Marquis of Queensberry. He said that if the marquis wrote the words which it is claimed he did upon the card produced, whether he was justified or not in so doing, it constituted a libel. Moreover, the recorder added, the defendant intende to plead justification as his defense. The grand jury eventually returned a true bill grand jury eventually returned a true bill against the marquis.

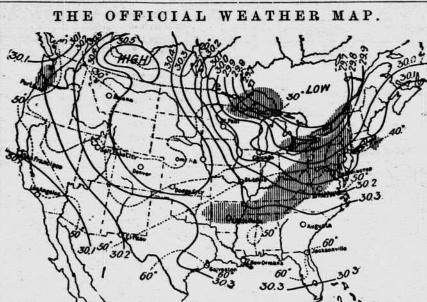

A dispatch from Monte Carlo to the Observer says that after Oscar Wilde and Lord Alfred Douglas, the second son of the Marquis of Queensberry, arrived at that place recently they went to a hotel, but, after staying there a day, the proprietor, at the request of the other English visitors, informed them that their rooms were engaged

The weather was sunny this morning, after a stormy night. The first train arrived at 12:50 p.m., but a few reporters and half a dozen gendarmes constituted the greater part of those who greeted the visitors at the station. But there was a scene of great animation when Count Herbert Bismarck, Count William Bismarck, Count von Rantzau, husband of Prince Bismarck's daughter, and Gen. Count von Waldersee daughter, and Gen. Count von Waldersee the members of the series of tional Chiefs of Police Union will convene

Since the organization of the national body, unions have been formed in many of the states, the state associations not only rendering mutual assistance in police work but they have been of material benefit to the service and the public in securing the pasage and enforcement of needed legisla-tion. The National Union occupies the position of advisory board to the several state associations. At the coming conven-tion reports will be made by the following committees, which were appointed last year: year:
To investigate and report upon the latest

THE KIEL CANAL

Its Opening to Be Celebrated by a Great Naval Demonstration.

UNITED STATES TO BE REPRESENTED

Probably Four of Its Finest War Ships to Go.

THOSE TO BE SELECTED

Unless existing foreign complications make it inexpedient, it is more than probable that the United States will be represented by at least four of its finest ships at the fetes in honor of the opening of the great Kiel canal between the Baltic and North seas. Orders have already been issued to Rear Admiral Kirkland, commanding the European squadron, to arrange his itinerary so as to insure the participation of the flagship San Francisco and the cruiser Marblehead in the celebration. These two vessels comprise the entire European fleet at this time. Secretary Herbert is seriously considering the question of adding at least two more vessels to the fleet for that special occasion. In case he concludes to do so, the reinforcements will be taken from the North Atlantic or home Temperature and condition of water at 8 a.m.: Great Falls, temperature, 43; condition, 32; receiving reservoir, temperature, 44; condition at north connection, 31; condition at south connection, 29; distributing reservoir, temperature, 44; condition at influent gate house, 21; effluent gate house, 13. squadron, which is larger now than it has squadron, which is larger now than it has been for years. It can easily stand the detachment of two vessels, unless the relations of this government with foreign countries, somewhat strained at present, reach a stage so acute as to threaten open hostilities, in which unlooked-for event it is not likely that any American warships could be spared for the peaceful demonstration at Kiel. Today—High tide, 7:25 p.m. Tomorrow—Low tide, 1:50 a.m. and 2:29 .m.; high tide, 7:48 a.m. and 8:04 p.m. Why the New York Should Not Go.

Secretary Herbert has been urged to send the flagship New York and the triple-screw cruisers Columbia and Minneapolis as cal-culated to make the best showing for the new American navy. The probabilities are new American navy. The probabilities are that if two vessels are taken from Admiral Meade's fleet they will be the Minne apolis and the Cincinnati. The New York is Admiral Meade's flagship, and there are several reasons why she should not go far from home. One of the reasons urged for her selection for the foreign detail is also accepted as the best reason why she should remain at home under existing conditions. She is the largest and most powerful ship in the navy, and would be the main reliance on the sea in case of trouble. It is claimed that she is superior to any ship of her tonnage and class in the world, not excepting the crack British cruiser Blake, which was the finest ship in the Columbian naval review.

cepting the crack British cruiser Blake, which was the finest ship in the Columbian naval review.

In the Minneapolis, San Francisco, Marblehead and Cincinnati the United States will have representatives of which she need feel no shame in comparison with the vessels of other navies at Kiel. They are all modern steel cruisers, but of different type and armament. All but the Marblehead are protected cruisers. The Minneapolis is of 7,375 tons displacement and has a main battery of one 8-inch breech loading rifle and two 6-inch and 8-inch rapid fire guns. Her great distinction, however, lies in her speed. She holds the record at that. The German and French navies each boasts a triple screw cruiser, but neither of them approaches the Minneapolis in speed.

In this branch of naval construction the United States has outstripped the world. The San Francisco has a displacement of 4,698 tons, and a main battery of twelve 6-inch breech loading rifles. The Cincinnati, which is a government built ship, has a displacement of 3,213 tons, and has a r.ain battery of ten 5-inch and one 6-inch rapid fire guns. The Marblehead is 2,074 tons displacement and carries nine 5-inch rapid fire guns.

All Nations Will Be Represented.

All Nations Will Be Represented.

All the great powers of the world will be represented by some of their most powerful ships at the Kiel celebration, which is generally recognized as an event second only to the opening of the Suez canal. The number of warships expected to be present number of warships expected to be present will far surpass any similar gathering of recent years, not excepting the Columbian review, in which about forty ships took part. The Emperor of Germany has directed that the event shall be celebrated by naval fetes on a grand scale, beginning on the 19th of June and continuing for a week. He has issued invitations to all the great nations of the world to be represented by their navies. The climax of the celebration will be the reception of the German squadron escorting the emperor on the 20th of June. The welcoming fleet will include representatives of all foreign paying. squadron escorting the emperor on the 20th of June. The welcoming fleet will include representatives of all foreign navies, all the excursion steamers from near-by ports and a host of private yachts from all over the world. The local authorities have provided anchorage for one hundred and fifty large vessels. The kaiser's invitation has already been accepted by Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Spain and the United States. France will be represented by at least two battle ships. England will send her channel squadron, comprising eight vessels. Russia will be represented by six or seven ships, and Italy and Spain by three or four each. The United States will certainly have two ships there, and possibly four. As was the case at our naval review, Great Britain will see that her representation exceeds in numbers and power that of any other nation. Germany will have all her available ships on hand, and the indications are that the occasion will be the most brilliant from a naval standpoint that has ever been witnessed.

Reciprocating Germany's Courtesy.

Reciprocating Germany's Courtesy. Germany had only two ships at our naval celebration, but the United States will endeavor to do her more honor so far as numbers go, if circumstances will permit.

At the Columbian review Great Britain was represented by five ships, and France, Italy, Spain and Brazil by three each. Germany had but two representatives—the Kaiserin-Augusta, of 6,052 tons displacement, and the Seeadler, of 1,880 tons disment, and the Seeadler, of 1,880 tons displacement. Her courtesy on that occasion would be fully met if the United States should not find it convenient to send more than two of her ships to Kiel. The San Francisco is nearly as large as the Kaiserin-Augusta, and the Cincinnati and Marblehead are each larger than the Seeadler. The Minneapolis is far superior to the Kaiserin-Augusta. It will therefore be seen that there will be no equitable cause of criticism even should there be no addition to the European fleet for the Kiel celebration.

Carlyle and Titian. Mrs. Wilson tells a story about Carlyle and Thackeray which has been told before but which may be new to some readers Several artists at the Royal Academy dinner, sitting in the neighborhood of these great men, were expressing their enthu-slasm about Titian. "His glorious coloring is a fact about Titian," said one; "and his glorious drawing is another fact about Titian," said a second. So they went on Titian," said a second. So they went on, till Carlyle, who had been listening in silence to their rhapsodies, interrupted them by saying, with a slow deliberation, which had its own impressive emphasis: "And here I sit, a man made in the image of God, who knows nothing about Titian, and cares nothing about Titian, and cares nothing about Titian, and cares nothing about Titian, and the second t and cares nothing about Titian,—and that's another fact about Titian." Thackeray was sipping claret at the moment, He paused and bowed courteously to Carlyle. "Pardon me," he said, "that is not a fact about Titian. But it is a fact—and a lamentable fact—about Thomas Carlyle." A Novel Expedient.

A resident of Mount Airy, Pa., who has been annoyed by a number of cats congregating and making his life and the lives of others miserable at night by their uncanny solos, has hit upon a plan to get rid of the solos, has hit upon a plan to get rid of the felines by the use of sticky fly paper. He places the fly paper where he expects the unsuspecting disturber of the peace will be most likely to tread on it, and goes to bed. The animal, if it puts all four feet on the paper, goes no farther, as the paper sticks to it and tangles it up, and it remains in that condition until dispatched with a ball from a rifle in the hands of the enterprising business man.

OF INTEREST TO INVESTORS No. 2. The Material.

A fire-proof, water-proof building material, available for inside as well as out-side construction purposes. Manufactured at an exceedingly small cost—and easily salable at a profit of several hundred percent. Lends itself more readily to decorative and other uses than any other material known. The absence of theory and its plainly practical utility has won it the interest of architects and builders all over the country.
